SENIOR CLASS
OF BURNSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

FOREWORD

We, the Burnsville Senior Class of '51, present this fourth edition of the Agricola to the Parents, Teachers, Students, and Pre-students in the hope that it may be considered one of their most cherished possessions. We have tried to make it complete, interesting, and enjoyable.

May the Memories it bring, whether happy or sad, be pleasantly emphasized in this, your Agricola.

DEDICATION

We the Senior class of '51 dedicate this the fourth edition of the Agricola to our parents, in appreciation for their encouragement and understanding through out the years, for their sympathy and interest when we needed it most and for the many efforts they put fourth in helping us to reach this coveted goal.

IN MEMORIAM

Mr. Daniel Boone Johnson, agriculture teacher and basketball coach, was killed in an automobile accident December 9, 1950.

Mr. Johnson came to Burnsville three years ago as agriculture teacher. He became the basketball coach, made winning teams from losing teams, and was very active in promoting and building the gymnasium.

CLASS HISTORY

In July, 1939, forty-four seekers of knowledge entered into Burnsville School. We were scared half to death. Some, with their Sunday smiles and some, with their Monday tears. But we were eager to seek our Readin', Ritin', and 'Rithmetic. With the help of the following teachers we finally pulled through our Freshmen year: Mrs. Johnson, Miss Fundrburke, Miss Ola Mae McSwain, Miss Mary Baker, Mrs. Grace Ross, Mrs. Flora Parker, Miss Grovene Howard, Mr. John Parker, and Miss Nora Boggan.

Four years ago early one morning in July, 1947, the faculty of Burnsville High School was strolling aimlessly throughout the halls, chatting about the just ended vacation and wondering whether there would be any startling changes in their work during the year. Suddenly Mrs. Rosa Simpson, Mrs. Edna Hatcher, Mr. T. A. Jones, Mrs. C. C. Bailey and Mr. C. C. Bailey, principal, caught a glimpse of something new and strange. Huddled together in mute embarrassment and anxiety were thirty-three members, who were th incoming Freshmen Class. To the casual eye they seemed merely a group of ordinary boys and girls, well dressed, reasonably good looking, and badly frightened. But finally they settled down and elected officers of the class: President, Dewey Sheppard; Vice President, Melvin Taylor; Secretary and Treasurer Dorothy Allen.

At the end of the year a terrible disaster befell us—final exams! Most of us passed with flying colors, and we could enjoy our well earned vacation.

With the coming of the next July we received a new name which was the "Sophomore Class." Our teachers were: Mr. D. W. Kanoy, principal, Mrs. Paul Moore, Mrs. Rosa Simpson, Mrs. Charles Bivens, and Mr. D. B. Johnson. The class organization was: President, Anne Jones; Vice President, Melvin Taylor; Secretary and Treasurer, Sara Ross.

In the third year, owing to an old educational custom, we sophomores became Juniors. This year was one of hard work and the dreaded ordeal of examinations was passed with few casualties. Our teachers were: Mrs. Charles Trice, Mrs. Rosa Simpson, Mrs. Monte B. Roper, Mr. D. B. Johnson, Mr. W. B. Yarborough, and Mr. D. W. Kanoy, principal. The delightful events of the year were: The Junior play, "No Bride For the Groom," the Junior-Senior Banquet and some parties. The class officers were: President, Charles Kiker; Vice President, Melvin Taylor; Treasurer, Anne Jones; Secretary, Jean Treadaway.

And now we came to the fourth and greatest year. We became Seniors in July. We organized the class this year with John Mitchum, President; Ervin Edwards, Vice President; Helen Thomas, Secretary; and Oma Dean Drye, Treasurer.

Some of the highlights this year were: Mrs. Kemp Treadaway gave us a watermelon cutting; Mrs. Charlie Edd Kiker, a wiener roast; Sara Ross and Anne Jones, a Hallowe'en Party; Mrs. Paul Moore, a former teacher, gave us the money for a party; Mrs. Charlie B. Thomas gave us a party; Mrs. T. A. Jones invited all the girls to spend the night at her home. All of these events were enjoyed by everyone.

All of our work and play has been looked upon with friendly amusement by: Mrs. Rosa Simpson, Mrs. Charles Trice, Mrs. Monte B. Roper, Mr. Abe Marion and Mr. A. B. Collins, Principal. Mr. D. B. Johnson was basketball coach and agriculture teacher until his untimely death, which caused us all a great deal of sorrow.

Out of the forty-four seekers of knowledge, only twenty-one seekers survived. The others were lost in the "Battle of Knowledge." We are proud to be the survivors.

KATIE HYATT.

Erwin—"Have you forgotten that you owe me five bucks?"
Mason—"Not yet, but give me time."

John—"I got a ticket this morning for driving too slow."
Helen—"Too slow?"
John—"Yeah, the cop caught me."

Katie—"Does your dog chase cows?"
Geraldine—"No, he's a bulldog."

Cecil—"Are you the butler?"
Melvin—"Look, bud, am I built like a maid?"

CLASS PROPHECY

One snowy night I was sitting by the fireside leislurely eating and watching the television screen, while the wind whistled loudly outside. The room was so cozy I had almost fallen asleep, when a voice startled me by saying, "Watch closely and I will reveal to you what has happened to your classmates of '51." You can't imagine how surprised I was, for it had been almost ten years since I had seen all my old classmates. I didn't even know where most of them were.

So I listened carefully and glued my eyes on the screen. Believe me, I certainly lost all desire to sleep.

The first one to appear on the screen is Anne Jones. But who is the tall gentleman with her? At once she introduces her husband. I should have recognized him, for it's Melvin Taylor, who is a world famous lecturer. Anne says they have just returned from a tour of Europe, and she is now going to start teaching Home Economics in a large school in Raleigh, North Carolina.

In the next scene a large hospital comes into view. It bears the name of "Phoebe Memorial." All is quiet but I hear familiar voices talking in hushed whispers. Then I recognize Dewey Sheppard who is the leading surgeon; he is giving orders to three faithful and trusted nurses whom I see are none other than Jean Treadaway, Rosalie Thomas and Katie Hyatt.

Then a scene in the Capital Square at Raleigh is revealed. The people are rejoicing over the election of their new governor, Mason Smith. I am not surprised that his native state recognized the qualities of leadership in this noble gentleman.

Then a book of some kind looms upon the screen—Ah, I can see better now and I am able to make out the name. It's the latest copy of the "Metropolitan." Fascinated by the artistic simplicity and beauty of its covers, I lean forward to get a closer look; a hand begins to turn the pages and I see the name of Oma Dean Drye. Who ever thought she'd be editor of a famous magazine?

As the other pages are revealed, I am struck by the charm of two ballet dancers. Glancing at the glaring headlines I read that Sarah Lee Kiker and Ollie Mae Thomas, famous successors to the great Tamara and Zorina will appear at the Metropolitan Opera House next month. Misses Kiker and Thomas have been directed in their dancing by Brady Carelock, one of Hollywood's best directors.

Next I see—oh, what a beautiful scene! I now see that it is a beautiful modern home. I look around to see who is to appear there. Then the door opens and Geraldine Thomas enters with her husband, Cecil Parker, who is now teaching Physical Education at Brevard College. They are going to one of the big teachers' conventions.

Suddenly a church comes into view. There seems to be a wedding taking place. Yes, there is a wedding. I see a familiar figure standing at the piano rendering a beautiful song. It's Ellis Ross, our Mascot of '51. And the distinguished looking clergyman who is waiting at the alter to perform the ceremony looks very familiar too. It's John Mitchum, our class president of '51.

Next I hear a loud noise and an enormous plane appears. I can't make out just what type it is. It must be an army plane, for it is landing at a large army airbase. And as the handsome pilot steps out of the plane, I see that it is Charles Kiker. I learn that he has won many decorations and honors for his daring courage and bravery.

The scene again changes and a large theater comes into view. The "Guy Lombardo" Orchestra is rendering a program. I hear a familiar voice singing one of the latest hits. I soon recognize the talented soloist as none other than Margie Bowers. We always knew Margie had a lovely voice and someday would be a great singer, but who ever thought she'd be a famous screen star?

The scene is again changing and I see another lovely little modernistic house. I am anxiously awaiting to see who is to appear. Why, it's Lucille Baucom as a happy housewife. And who is the familiar figure coming out of the house across the street, where the three cute children are playing? I should have guessed—it's Sara Ross! She always said she wanted to be a housewife and mother.

A car stops in front of a huge building; a tall dignified woman steps lightly from the car. Instantly I recognize her as Helen Thomas. She explains that she is teaching History in the University of Pennsylvania, and I remember that she is a member of the History class of '50.

As the scene changes to a street in New York City, a majestic group of buildings come into view. I can't distinguish which is to be shown. Ah yes, I can see the sign now—"The Edwards' Photography Agency." To my surprise I see Ervin Edwards, an old classmate of mine, peering through the camera—and the beautiful teen-ager—haven't I seen her somewhere before? Of course. It's Marie Kiker, who was our Mascot of '51, and who is now posing for the Edwards' Photography Agency. She is becoming very famous for her beauty.

After the last one has been shown I sit there pondering over the success of each of my fellow classmates and I think even though I'm not as famous as some of the others, I'm still happy in being what I am. Gee, I can't sit here dreaming. I must get some sleep or I can't get up early enough to get my husband to work on time and the kids off to school.

DOROTHY PRESLAR

Melvin—"My girl friend is a twin."
Anne—"How do you tell them apart?"
Melvin—"Her brother is built different."

JOURNEYS' END

Composed by Vandola Cornett

We the class of '51
Have traveled long and far
To gain our knowledge and education,
And Burnsville has been our guiding star.

Now at our Journeys' End,
We leave our books behind.
We are now upon our own,
Without help of teacher's mind.

For our caravan's flag we chose
The colors of orchid and white,
For the frame of our colors, sweetpeas,
The flowers so lovely and bright.

We are not forgetting the help of friends
And classmates, and those concerned.
To them we owe our appreciation
For many of the things we learned.

In bidding farewell to you, Burnsville,
We give you our best to attend
To the marks we might have left behind us,
While traveling toward our Journeys' End.

OMA DEAN DRYE.

CLASS WILL

We the Senior class of '51 of the Burnsville High School, county of Anson and State of North Carolina being of sound mind and memory, do herefore make, ordain, publish and declare this to be our last Will and testament.

To our dear old school building itself, we leave the peaceful quietness caused by our absence and any apple cores, and wads of gum we may have left about.

To our teachers we bequeath our valuable sense of humor, without which we should have found school life painful indeed and which will do much to make it endurable.

To the Junior class we leave our good luck. It made us what we are today.

To our good friends, the Sophomore Class, we leave our patience. It will be found useful as the only means by which they can endure the Juniors.

To the young and unsophisticated Freshmen, we leave a map of the school building, so that they will not get lost and roam about in everybody's way looking for their classrooms.

To Betty Allen, Margie Bowers wills her athletic ability to be a forward on the first team. May Burnsville never lose a game.

To Shelly Baucom, Helen Thomas leaves her place to meet his classes on time.

To John Taylor, Dewey Sheppard leaves his innocent look after making a noise on class.

To Isabel Burgess, Lucille Baucom wills her choice to go steady. May Jerry and Isabel make a go of it.

To Anne Caudle, Ollie Mae Thomas leaves her guessing ability on tests. May she never have to copy.

To Anne Hyatt, Sarah Kiker, wills her silly laugh. We hope it won't get her in as much trouble as it has Sarah.

To Add Allen, Cecil Parker leaves his ability to flirt with the girls. But don't catch them all.

To Wiley Caudle, Bradie Carelock leaves his ability to find out everyone's business. Don't ask too many questions.

To Julia Anne Baucom, Rosa Lee Thomas leaves her wild cracks. May the teachers never catch her like they did Rosa Lee.

To Ruby Broadaway, Oma Dean Drye wills her quiet ways.

To R. P. Drye, Charles Kiker leaves his ability to slip off to the store and never get caught.

To Wayne Edwards, John Mitchum leaves his slow, graceful walk.

To Louise Thomas, Katie Hyatt leaves her ability to get along with the principals.

To Mary Kiker, Geraldine Thomas leaves her ability to fall in love. Don't fall in love too deep.

To Bobby Mask, Jean Treadaway leaves her ability to draw the men's attention.

To Mary Alice Thomas, Sara Ross leaves her ability to want a diamond in her Senior year.

To H. C. Thomas, Dewey Sheppard leaves his ability to get by with the teachers.

To Julian Lee, Melvin Taylor leaves his ability to make good grades.

To Myra Grey Thomas, Dorothy Preslar leaves her ability to be heard above anyone else. May she not have to scream.

To Wallace Turner, Ervin Edwards leaves his bashful ways with the girls.

To Virginia Howard, Helen Thomas leaves her job as a helper in the lunch room.

To Camille Jones, Mason Smith leaves his choice to never get married. May you never break anyone's heart.

To Ramelle Honeycutt, Anne Jones leaves her popularity.

To Beth Kiker, Sarah Kiker wills her mischievious ways. Let's hope Beth won't get as many problems as Sarah did.

To Wilson Turner, Bradie Carelock wills his ability to referee ball games.

To Carolyn Lee, Rosa Lee Thomas leaves her ability to be the teacher's pet.

To Lowell Preslar, Melvin Taylor leaves his ability to make his girl friend a hope chest in the shop.

To Joyce Kiker, Margie Bowers wills her ability to pocket men. May she not tear off her pocket.

To Joe Frank Thomas, Sarah Ross wills her love.

To Fred Ross, John Mitchum leaves his ability to go steady.

To Adeline Edwards, Ervin Edwards wills his love for reading love stories. Don't let them cause you heartaches.

Signed: By The Seniors of '51
By: SARAH LEE KIKER

Jean—"There's nothing unusual for two people to have the same ideas."
Sarah Lee—"Yes, I've found that out since I started going with boys."

Sara Ross—"I know a woman that can dress in three minutes."
Dewey—"I'd like to see her."

Margie—"Is he a nice boy?"
Dorothy—"No, dearie, you'll like him."

MEMORIES

Classmates, realizing that our high school days have come to an end, we have chosen these moments for you. Maybe these reminders will make you smile as you look at them and recall the happy and unpleasant days we spent together at Burnsville High.

Ollie Mae Thomas, we give you this rate trap to catch the man of your dreams.

Cecil Parker, we give you this curler. May you always have curls.

Dorothy Preslar, we give you this rattler to pacify you while Arthur is away.

Oma Dean Drye, we give you this mirror. May you continue to keep your hair in place.

Sarah Lee Kiker, we give you this horn. You would not be satisfied with anything quieter.

Helen Thomas, we give this bank to put your money in that you saved while working in the lunch room.

Brady Carelock, we give you this pack of cigarettes. These are to remind you of the many you bummed while in high school.

Rosa Lee Thomas, we give you this joke book, to use when you run out of jokes of your own.

Charles Kiker, we give you this set of tires. These are to replace the ones that you have worn out on your daddy's car.

Mrs. Simpson, we give you this memory book. May you never forget the class of '51.

Ellis Ross, we give you this bulldozer. When you finish school, you can take up your father's business.

Lucille Baucom, we give you this box of chalk so that Robert may always walk the chalk line.

Mrs. Roper, we give you this cop to remind you of the times you patrolled the halls.

Geraldine Thomas, we give you this diary. Use it to keep notes of your important occasions.

Marie Kiker, please accept this notebook. Use it throughout your school years.

John Mitchum, we give you this book to remind you of the many times you failed to carry yours home.

Mrs. Trice, we give you this boy so that Ellen and Anne may have a baby brother.

Mason Smith, we give you the answer to your dreams. Please accept this car.

Dewey Sheppard, please accept this watch. If you run short of money, you will always have the time.

Mr. Collins, we give you these number blocks. May you continue to have numbers ready for the rule breakers.

Sara Ross, we give you this frying pan to keep Joe Frank from becoming unruly.

Margie Bowers, we give you this iron, so that you will never have trouble ironing out your "blues."

Anne Jones, we give you this chicken in order that you may remember your home life while you are in college.

Melvin Taylor, please accept this fiddle. This is to remind you of the times you played second fiddle.

Katie Hyatt, we give you these clothes pins so that you may always hold R. P. on the line.

Jean Treadaway, we give you this squirt gun. This is to remind you of the times you squirted people.

Erwin Edwards, we give you this toy car to remind you of the one you tore up for your father.

Mr. Marian, we give you this Spanish dictionary so that you may understand your mother-in-law.

JOHN MITCHUM

MASON SMITH

Katie—"Do you mean I'm being held here for ranson"?
Mason—"Heck, no! Let Ranson get his own woman."

Mrs. Simpson—"Some men thirst after fame. Some after love, and some after money."
Brady—"I know something they all thirst after."
Mrs. Simpson—"And what is that"?
Brady—"Salted peanuts."

After several hours of fishing, Rosa Lee threw down her pole and cried, I quit.
What's wrong, said Jean?
Nothing said Rosa Lee, except I can't seem to get waited on.

Lucille—"I have an awful cold in my head."
Oma Dean—"Well, that's something."

Ollie Mae was late for school one morning. When she came in Mrs. Simpson said, "Ollie Mae, you should have been here at 8:15." "Why," said Ollie Mae, "what happened?"

CLASS GRUMBLER

The Senior Class was in a whirl, I Helen Thomas, being the only perfect girl. About the class I was to grumble,
That won't be hard listen to this jumble.

All Sarah Lee does is giggle, giggle, giggle,
When she is in class she wiggles, wiggles, wiggles.

Rosa Lee sometimes has a fit of temper,
With Mrs. Simpson around she doesn't make a whimper.

Dewey has beautiful girls galore,
He's never satisfied; he's always looking for more.

Sara Ross's mind is always on Joe,
People say they're married I believe it's so.

Jean thinks she's a queen on a throne,
But she'll work on a composition till the break of dawn.

Ollie Mae likes to have her own way,
But she usually does what others say.

Anne thinks she is so very bright,
I wonder how she gets the answer right.

Dorothy Preslar has always been famous for her big mouth,
If you have never been around her, You don't know the half.

Cecil has the the natural curl,
But it's not; ask the girls.

Charles thinks his girl is pretty as can be,
Love is blind and so is he.

Oma Dean and Edison make a perfect pair,
To say something bad about them, I wouldn't dare.

Melvin was so in love he was in a coma,
All of a sudden he was upset by Oklahoma.

Lucille is always so quite,
If someone tried to steal Robert, she would put up a fight.

Geraldine would make a perfect teacher,
She has such a dominate feature.

Margie Bowers get's men with her good locks,
She doesn't want one; she wants flocks.

Brady thinks he's a basket ball star,
If he would practice free shots, he'd be better by far.

Katie has lots of friends,
She has but one interest in men.

Erwin's mind is as sharp as a blade,
He tries to be a detective like Sam Spade.

Mason is always grumbling about his bus,
It could be worse so why doesn't he hush.

In his studies John Lags behind,
He may not be lazy but this is a good sign.

Helen Thomas.
